

Central East Student Nutrition Program FACT SHEET

Objective

The objective of the program is to support the healthy development of children and youth arriving at school ready to learn. A student nutrition program may be either a breakfast, morning meal, lunch and/or snack program.

Central East Student Nutrition Program

Background

- Ontario provincial funding for student nutrition programs started in the Spring 2005. Program guidelines and nutrition guidelines were developed by the Ministry of Children and Youth Services in collaboration with the Ministries of Education and Health etc, to establish a province-wide standard for program delivery, and provide local communities with a framework to assist in meeting the nutrition needs of children and youth.
- The Peterborough Family Resource Centre was selected as lead agency for Central East Region in the Spring of 2005. There are seven regions within Central East (see map above). Each region has a Community Partnership Committee.
- The PFRC contracts one or two Coordinators (dependent on regional size), to support student nutrition programs.
- Government funding is intended to be base funding so additional funds can be leveraged.
- Local fundraising and partnership development with community sponsors is required to increase the funding base of the programs.

- Fundraise and develop partnerships with regional and local sponsors.
- Ensure the sustainability of local programs through in-kind donations, awareness and marketing.
- Link with local health units or other nutrition education supports to access consultation to support program delivery.

Impacts

- Large body of research supports the link between proper nutrition and learning.
- Combined and consistent message of this body of research is that children who eat breakfast significantly improves their cognitive abilities, enabling them to be more alert, pay better attention, and to do better in terms of reading, math and other standardized test scores.
- An extensive Toronto District School Board study (Toronto Star May 12, 2012) has found that eating breakfast boosts behavior, grades and graduation rates while curbing classroom interruptions, suspensions and sick days.
- Children who eat breakfast also are sick less often and do significantly better in terms of cooperation, discipline and interpersonal behaviors. Even nutritional deficiencies of a relatively short duration ie. a missed breakfast, impairs children's ability to function and to learn.
- From a social perspective, student nutrition programs provide a safe environment for children to establish a sense of belonging and develop relationships with caring volunteers. In addition, children enjoy the social interaction of eating with their friends and benefit from learning eating habits that will last them a lifetime. This further increases a child's self confidence, resiliency, strengthening of social relationships and energy levels. Participation also provides the opportunity to inform children, youth and their families about healthy eating through role modeling.
- Children receive so much more than a healthy meal. They are provided with a sense of community and a chance to make new friends.

Roles & Responsibilities of SNP Coordinators

- Provision of data ie. monthly reports.

- Voting Member on Local Partnership Committee representing MCYS.
